

First Annual Ethics Colloquium ~ Wednesday, March 25, 2020

TIME	SESSION	SPEAKER	SPEAKER	SPEAKER	TITLE
GSUB ROOM 129
9:30-9:45	Opening Ceremony with Remarks by Dr. Scott O'Connor and Dr. Sabine Roehr
9:45-10:15	1	Dr. Jennifer A.Pax, Sociology & Anthropology	Crystal Santiago, Sociology	Yulissa Mota, Sociol- ogy	Value and Ethics for Social Work and the Helping Profes- sions - Faculty and Student Perspectives
10:15-10:45	2	Daniel Antunes, Biology	Dr. Peri Yuksel, Psy- chology		Exploring the Ethical Role of the iGeneration For Sustaining Peace in the 21st Century
10:45-11:15	3	Frank Rivera, Philosophy & Religion (alumnus)	Steven Donohue		Exploring Moral Injury's Effect on United States Military Vet- erans
11:15-11:30	BREAK
11:30-12:00	4	Dr. Esther Nir, Criminal Justice			Do the Means Matter? Procedural Transgression by Police and their Implication on Police Legitimacy
12:00-12:30	5	Dr. Yunus Tuncel, Philosophy & Religion			Crisper and the Ethics of Genetic Enhancement
12:30-1:00	6	Dr. Chrysoula Gitsoulis, Philosophy & Religion			Overcoming the Means Objection to Utilitarianism
1:00-2:15	LUNCH
2:15-2:45	7	Prof. Scott Taylor, Philosophy & Religion			Towards a Pragmatic Social Work Ethics
2:45-3:15	8	Dr. Sabine Roehr, Philosophy & Religion			Redemption - an American Love Story
3:15-3:45	9	César Omar Sánchez, Philosophy & Religion			The "Ethics of US Sanctions Against Cuba, Venezuela, and Iran"
3:45-4:00	BREAK
4:00-4:30	10	Christina Strusa, Psychology	Boris Kirtchakov, Marketing	Dr. Peri Yuksel, Psy- chology	Why Should We Care About Robots Who Care? Exploring Potential Side Effects and Social Impact of Human-Machine Interactions on Vulnerable Populations
4:30-5:00	11	Prof. David Simone, Philosophy & Religion			Is Civility a Virtue?
5:00-5:30	12	Rev. Keion Jackson, Philosopy & Religion			Faith Through Racial Injustice: African Centered Christianity
5:30-6:00	13	Prof. Paul Orbe, Chemistry			Ethics in Chemistry
With generous support from the Dr, João Sedycias, Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, and C3 via the Office of the Provost.					