

That Mysterious Noise

The night I profoundly slept so comfortable on my bed
all was quiet in the house
no rain or wind to make me arouse I guess I talked too soon because I heard a noise in the room.

At first, I thought it was my mind
if only I did not hear it one more time, Maybe I should go back to sleep
but then some fears began to heap fears of creepy monsters under my bed
and some ghoulish ghost above my head.

If for now I cannot sleep a bit
I might as well investigate where is it, I checked around then I did assume that it is not inside this room
I grabbed a light and open the door that noise must be around this floor.

Outside my room it was the hallway
long and dark it seemed to sway while my light illumned my path around I approached the first door I found.
The first room seems dark, I'm almost blind
but i hope I find an answer behind.

It seems that the noise comes from here will I find the motives of my fear?
But this one was not the same I heard before
Is there another monster behind this door?
luckily, I realized one relieving thing
it was just mom and dad loudly snoring.

Then I heard it once again is probably here I said as I move in This room was quieter than the other one
I wish this whole investigation is done
But there it is one more time that mysterious noise not where I'm.

At the end of the hallway there is one more door apart from darkness I hope there is something more I did hear some water drips falling on the floor
but nothing like what I heard before.
For a moment I thought the noise ceased until I heard it nearby and increased.

The noise seems to come from downstairs
the steps seemed risky, but who cares.
At this point all I can think about is how it is getting loud and loud.
Fortunately, I made it through the stairs
now that mysterious noise my mind despairs.

I went inside the kitchen and I find out the noise is here, there is no doubt!! then I heard it moved and did a leap
I guess I am never going back to sleep.
I heard it moving around the kitchen floor
before it stopped behind a cabinet's door.

I moved in closely towards the cabinet's door
hopping to let this be an easy chore.
But then I stopped because I feel a fright
what if what is in here is something that will bite?
I guess is best if I move very slow and that is what I did as I tiptoe.

And as I opened wide the cabinet's door
I could not believe what was in store.
The reason behind all my fear was something I never thought I will see here Because this creature is indeed a terrifying one but surely not for everyone.

I am just as surprised as you are I cannot believe I came this far,
only to see a mouse eating some bread
well I am tired now I better go back to bed.
