NJCU's Global Initiatives Unit has over 50 partners in 17 different countries and focuses on cultivating and strengthening relations with institutions of higher education all over the world. These bi-lateral relationships are mutually-beneficial and provide opportunities for NJCU to truly be a global university for a global student body. Student, faculty and administrator delegations are invited to visit the NJCU campus to engage in a training, customized to the delegation's need. The trainings may also include a cultural immersion component so the international group gets the opportunity to experience the east coast of America, including New Jersey, New York, Philadelphia and even Washington DC.
