

IN THE BACK

NJCU ABROAD

59 Ireland
59 India

60 Germany
60 Costa Rica

NJCU Abroad

During the 2015-16 academic year, NJCU students traveled abroad in record number—close to 100 students traveled to eight regions of the globe—thanks to the University's commitment to expanding international opportunities across the curriculum.

Eight students from the accelerated pre-licensure and RN-BSN nursing programs participated in a service learning trip to Tanzania led by faculty members Debra Scardaville and Elizabeth Galetz. The NJCU volunteers worked with local physicians and nurses to provide direct and indirect care at a variety of agencies, including rural dispensaries, elementary schools, hospitals, and public health clinics. Although one NJCU student was fluent in Swahili, the group was assisted by two interpreters.

Five seniors from the NJCU School of Business traveled to Mumbai, India in December to present at the XXIII International Economics Convention, hosted by HR College of Commerce and Economics. Among the competitors were colleges from India, the UK, and Hong Kong.

The students were accompanied by Wanda Rutledge and John Donnellan, both assistant professors of management.

Convention organizers challenged students from around the globe to research the Corporate Social Responsibility (CSR) efforts of an assigned country, prepare a 35-page paper about those efforts, and present outcomes to Convention attendees.

NJCU's team—Jackie Cella, Janette Conwell, Erika Isler, Maurice Outlaw, and Kerolos Rophail—were challenged to research the CSR programs and results of Japanese companies and of companies operating in Japan.

IN THE BACK

Belfast

Students in the “Politics, Folklore, and Theatre” course traveled to Belfast, Londonderry, and Dublin, Ireland.

Ireland

Students explore Dublin

Japan

Political Science Professors Fumiko Sasaki and Louise Stanton led 12 students to Japan in early January as part of the “Government and Politics of Asia,” a course that integrated classroom learning and field work in Tokyo. While in Japan, students visited historical, business, and cultural sites and were hosted for presentations at the Japan Business Association and Aoyama Gakuin University in Tokyo

Costa Rica

Dr. Laine Giovanetto leading some of the NJCU “Tropical Field Ecology” class at the University of Georgia field station in San Luis, Monteverde, Costa Rica in amphibian sampling.

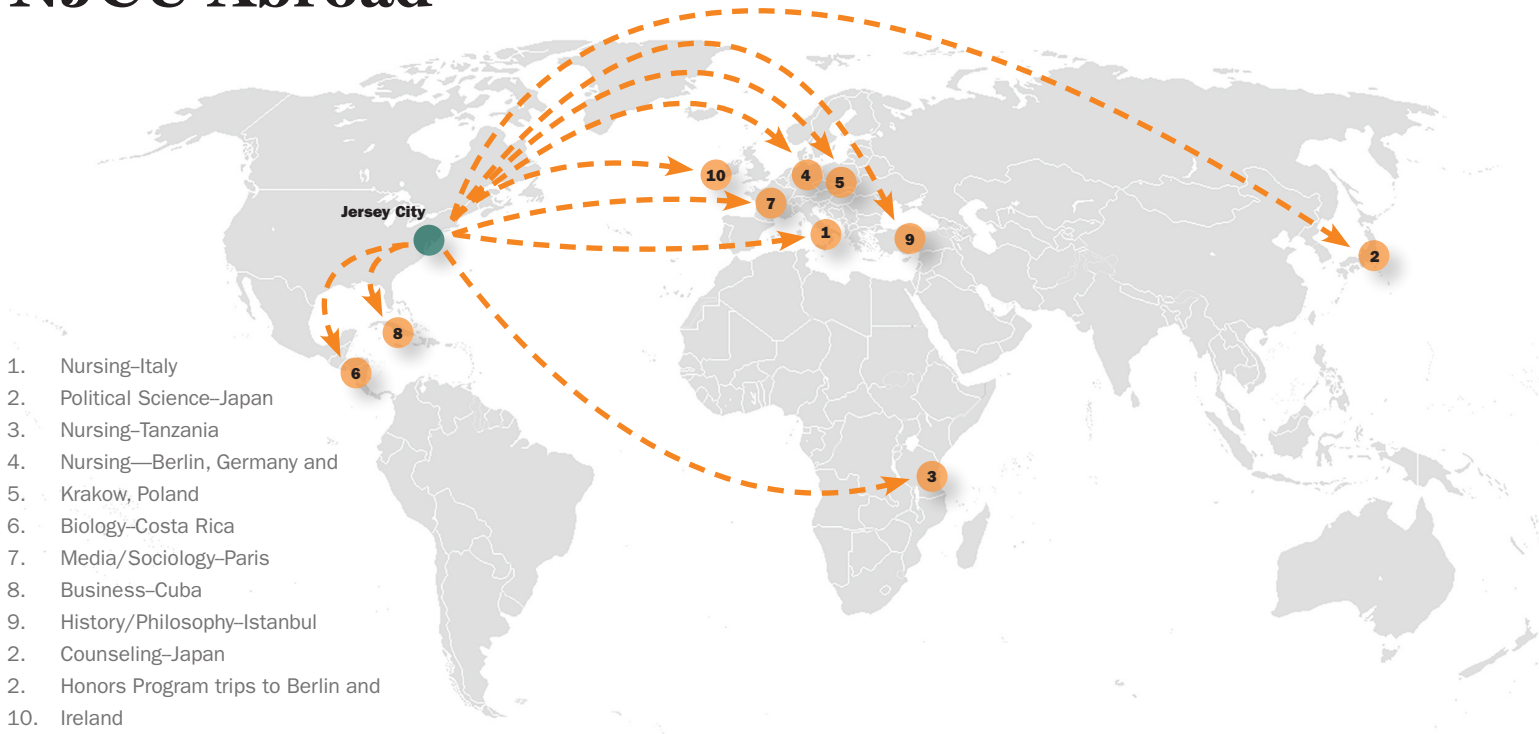

India

NJCU team wins best Q&A at the XXIII International Economics Conference in Mumbai for their critical thinking, responses on their feet to the Q&A and their insightful questions to the other teams.

NJCU Abroad

Germany

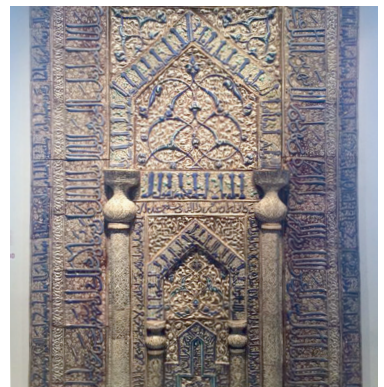

Berlin Cathedral on Museum Island

Brandenburg Gate

Pergamon tour

Mihrab